MAKE-UP HINTS

By MAX FACTOR

CLEOPATRA'S BEAUTY SECRETS UNEARTHED BY MAX FACTOR.

Did Cleopatra wear make-up?

That was the question that had Paramount Studio officials slightly dizzy when they started production on Claudette Colbert's new picture, "Cleopatra," featuring Henry Wilcoxon and Warren Williams.

Before a camera turned in that picture, Mr. Cecil B. DeMille, the producer, wanted to know just what cosmetic knowledge the Cleopatra of the Nile possessed.

To solve this problem, he called in Max Factor, the Hollywood make-up authority who probably knows more about cosmetics than any man living. Max Factor gathered his personal staff and his research department dug for months in the archives of history to turn back the cosmetic calendar twenty centuries.

And here is what they learned—

Cleopatra, siren queen at seventeen, wore reddened wax on her fingers and toes. Her hair was bleached and dyed a golden-red and her gowns were drenched in potent perfumes. Her body was of amber tint. Likewise, she used tinted cold cream and hennaed the palms of her hands and the soles of her feet.

And, according to the facts unearthed by Max Factor, our lady of the Nile didn't forget to keep her "schoolgirl complexion." Her face was powdered with ground mother of pearl to give it a pale smoothness. On rainy summer evenings she achieved enchanting loveliness with green face powder. Her under eyelids were tinted with green. The upper lids were black. Broad lines extended along the upper portions of her face to the temples.

But here's the grandest fact of all—proving that history repeats itself: Even with a fifteen-foot dressing table it took her FOUR HOURS TO DRESS! Had she Max Factor's, time and money saved, beauty enhanced.

Mickey Mouse in Home of Modern Art

DISNEY EXHIBITION

The work of Walt Disney is to be seen in a noted art rendezvous, where viewings of Epstein, Piccaso, Pissarro, Sickert, and other famous masters' work has already been proffered.

The Leicester Galleries, Leicester Square London, recently presented, an exhibition entitled "How Walt Disney Makes his Animated Cartoons," with original drawings in colour and black and white from Mickey Mouse and Silly Symphonies.

A set of originals of the Mickey Mouse film, "The Klondike Kid," will be shown in sequence, while a number of "key" drawings will indicate how continuity of action is achieved.

There will also be a complete set of originals of "The China Shop," one of the most popular of recent Silly Symphonies in colour. These will be shown in sequence, as well as colour drawings of "Peculiar Penguins," "The Wise Little Hen," and more recent works.

Photographs of the varied technical processes of the Disney staff of artists and "animators," and of the studio at work, will also be included.

The pictures have been specially loaned for the occasion by Walt Disney.

ELSTREE ROMANCE

A romance of a few weeks ago is followed by the announcement of the engagement of George Harris, the diminutive film comedian, and Sybil Allen, the film actress.

George Harris, who is four feet ten in height, is six inches shorter than his fiancée.

He appears in the film "Strictly Illegal," with Leslie Fuller.

MARTHA EGGERTH SIGNED

An Important Universal acquisition is Martha Eggerth, the Hungarian singer, who was last seen in the "Unfinished Symphony," and who is engaged to Jan Kiepura.

Universal's new star speaks five languages, and has appeared in musical moving pictures made in three of these languages. She has worked in studios in Britain, France, and Germany, as well as in Budapest.

MADEIRA CARROLL IN G. B. FILM

Two interesting additions have been made to the cast of "The Thirty-Nine Steps," the Gaumont-British screen version of John Buchan's spy-thriller, directed by Alfred Hitchcock.

Madeline Carroll is to star opposite Robert Donat, and Godfrey Tearle is to be the master-spy-criminal and general Public Enemy.

TWO NEW STARS

To the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer star list, which includes Norma Shearer, Clark Gable, Lionel Barrymore, Jean Harlow and many others—have been added the names of two new stars. They are already ranked as such despite the fact that they have made but one appearance before the camera and spoken no lines at all. Their names are Malibu and Gato, and explanations are in order. Malibu is a deer, a magnificent five-point buck, and Gato is a puma. The animals are the principal "actors" in "Sequoia," the new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture based on a nature story by Joseph Vance Hoyt, prominent California naturalist and author. Around the premise that two such animals, natural enemies, can be reared together in friendly fashion is built the plot of the story. The deer wandered into camp with its "Gathers at the Neck." "Where the greatest differences are to be found in the new dresses—and coats—are at the necklines." The collar sketch- ed at the top is white pique kept in place by a roll of the same material. The shirred neckline shows the fullness drawn up on a cord, and the coat below is finished with a knitted cravat.

THE PRICE OF BEAUTY

BRITISH women's beauty bill is going up. It is estimated they spent over £18,000,000 on making themselves attractive last year—a million more than in 1933.

The cosmetic bill is nearly £6,000,000. Hair-dressers and beauty parlours take the rest.

More elaborate beauty treatments is one reason for the increase. Plastic surgery, diathermy, and hair-lifting cost many fashionable women nearly £200 a year. A well-known London beauty specialist has many standing orders for £3. 8s. worth of beauty a week.

"Many women will spend £75 on a new nose," this specialist said. "They pay £25 and more for permanently red lips and up to £5 for treatments for clear skin."

"A rejuvenated face can cost £200 or more. To cut away the wrinkles from beneath the eyes is a £30 job."

"Eyes cost least, but are most neglected. Tired eyes reveal a woman's age, but many women, rather than spend a few pence daily in bathing them with a scientifically prepared lotion, rush to the plastic surgeon and spend £25 in having the result of years of neglect put right in a week. Teeth are better cared for than are eyes."

"Many women overlook simple health routine and seek remedies for ravaged beauty in elaborate make-up and beauty preparations." The nation's total health bill for the current year will be £21,000,000—only £3,000,000 less than the sum women will spend on their faces and hair.

mother when he was two months old. Because it was so friendly and had a unique saddle marking on its back it was chosen for the role. Dr. Hoyt himself "discovered" the puma. It happened upon it after its mother had been mortally wounded by a hunter. After being scratched up a bit, he managed to bring it to camp. To get the little lion used to Jean Parker, who has the only feminine role in the picture and who is required to adopt Gato as her pet along with Malibu, the puma was installed in Miss Parker's room, where she fed him from a baby bottle. A pen was built just outside her window, and there Malibu was kept. After a few weeks it was easy sailing for all three. Members of the cast of "Sequoia," which was directed by Chester Franklin and Nick Grinde, include Russell Hardie, as a forest ranger;

Baby-Naming Comedies

By "G. L."

There is perhaps no more interesting subject, or one so universally discussed, as that of the naming of the baby. In most cases the decision arrived at is the unanimous choice of those at the time responsible, but whether the name thus bestowed upon the child will meet with his or her approval in after days it is impossible to say.

A mere whim, a passing fancy on the mother's part, may result in a child being saddled with a name which in time he or she will come to hate.

There are some parents who delight to burden their children with a long string of names which can only be an encumbrance to the child in after years. Parents do have strange fancies. We read the other day of a father who labelled his ten children with names all beginning with the letter "Z."

When it comes to the actual christening ceremony, situations sometimes arise which can be both awkward and serious, or ludicrous and amusing. On one occasion, when a rustic couple took their child to the font and the minister asked them to name the child, the husband grinned and nudged his wife, a performance which she immediately imitated, and he could get no name out of them. In the end, losing his patience, the minister named the child "John." No sooner had he done so than the man exclaimed, "Hey, Betsy, minister's christened he John, and he's a wench."

A minister friend told of his experience when christening the child of a sailor. The father was holding the child with its feet to the minister and the latter whispered, "The other way." After a look at the child the father turned it upside down "No, no," again whispered the minister, "the other way." The sailor lifted a puzzled face to the minister and looked round for his wife, when a shipmate, noticing his predicament, cried, "Turn her fore and aft, Bill." And the sailor, with a smile, responded to the language he knew.

But perhaps the most startling incident, from the minister's point of view occurred when, a child in long clothes having been presented to him and he having dropped the water on the child's forehead, it opened its eyes, looked up at him and said, "What are you up to?"

The explanation of this was that, while the child was small for his age, had got the length of talking and his parents had dressed him up in long clothes thinking, no doubt, that was the proper thing to do on such an occasion, the fact that the baptism had been delayed too long.

Samuel Hinds as an author, and Paul Hurst as a villainous trapper.

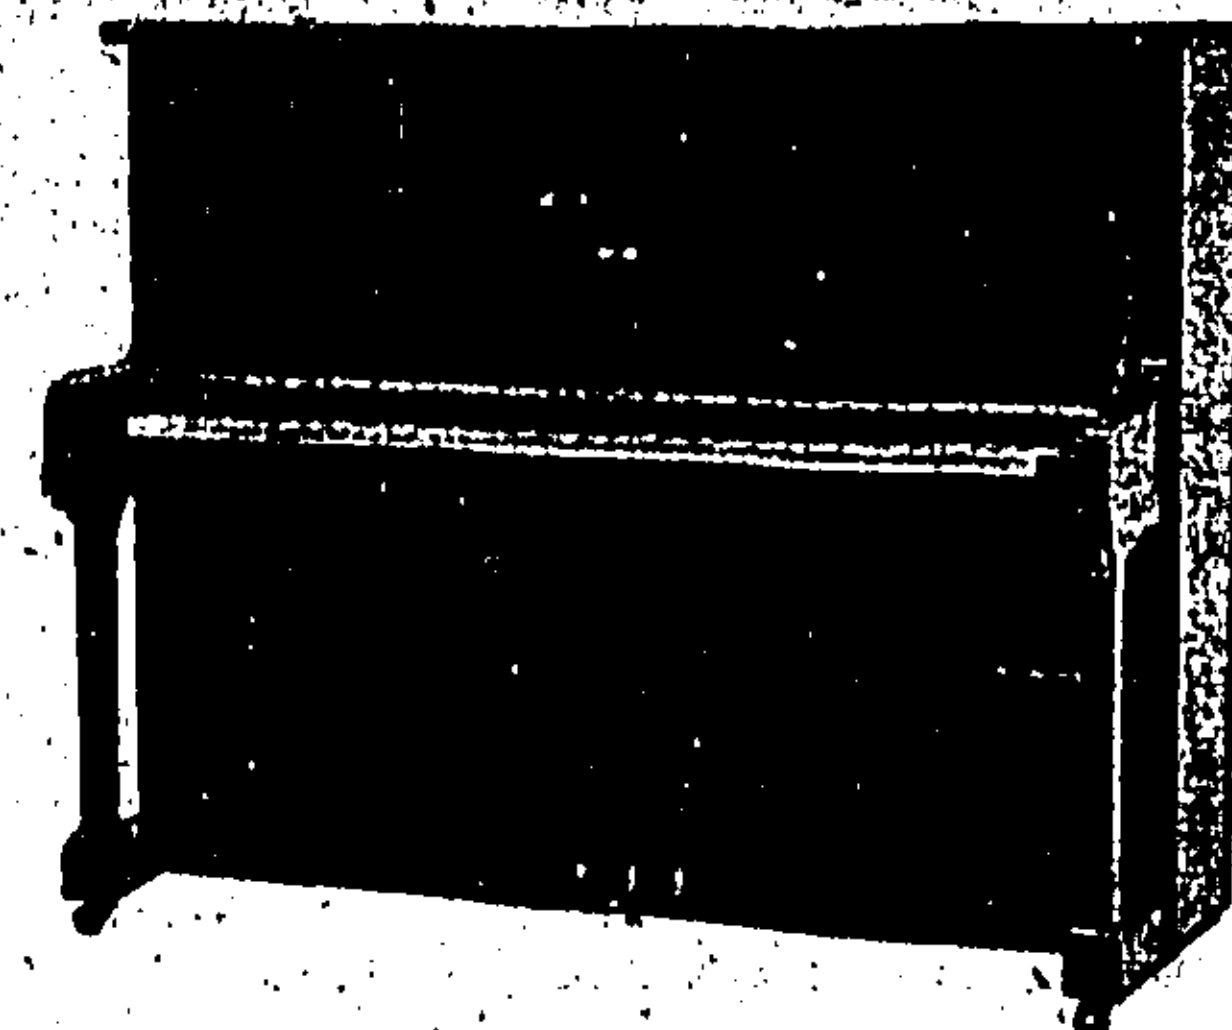

PERSONALIA

Bela Lugosi, who arrived at the M-G-M studios to play in "Vampires of Prague," will be directed by Tod Browning, the man who first put him on the screen. Browning directed Lugosi in "Dracula" and "The Thirteenth Chair."

Alice Lake, former star of the silent screen, and Bert Roach, veteran comedian, had a reunion when Miss Lake threw Roach out of a dressing-room in a comedy interlude of "Shadow of Doubt" at the M-G-M studios. Twelve years ago, when they last played together, she threw him out of a restaurant booth!

Helen Shipman, former Broadway musical comedy celebrity, has joined the cast of "Naughty Marietta." She plays Marietta, the maid, whose identity Jeannette MacDonald takes in the M-G-M picture. Miss Shipman last appeared at M-G-M in "Her Sweetheart" with the late Marie Dressler.

What might easily have been a fatal motor accident occurred on the Shanghai-Minghong Road recently. A car, which was apparently being driven at high speed, went off the road and turned over, burying its nose in the mud bank. There were two Chinese occupants who escaped with minor injuries through being cut with broken glass.

BORN WITHOUT THROAT

DOCTORS WORK TO SAVE BABY

Baltimore, Mar. 5. Physicians here are fighting to save the life of a baby girl who was born without an esophagus. Born with no opening from her throat into her stomach, the child is being fed through a rubber tube leading through her abdominal wall direct into her stomach. Specialists at Maryland General Hospital believe that the baby would live despite the "congenital closure" and were preparing to make an esophagus through the living tissues after her physical condition has been built up to withstand the shock of the operation.

Such an operation, if successful, would be one of the surgical high marks of the year, doctors point out. Less than one child in a hundred thousand shows ever slight traces of "congenital closure," physicians said. Dr. P. A. Insley and Dr. Robert P. Bay said the baby girl was normal in all respects except the missing esophagus and the fact that she has two right thumbs.—United Press.

GAOL BY INSTALMENTS

St. Louis, Mar. 6. A jail sentence on the installment plan was imposed when City Judge Vest sentenced Gullin Hamiel, negro clergyman, to 30 days for striking a negro woman relief worker. Under the sentence Hamiel will enter the jail at 1 p.m. each Saturday and serve until 4 a.m. Monday morning for 10 weeks.—United Press.

BRIEF MURDER TRIAL

OVER IN FOUR MINUTES

MAN SMILES AT DEATH

A murder trial which is believed to be the shortest on record took place at the Old Bailey, London, when, in four minutes after entering the dock, a man was sentenced to death.

Entering the dock with a broad smile on his face, and gazing round the Court in an amused way, James Robert Vent, 37, a miner, of Church Street, Camberwell, was charged with the murder of Clementina Balchin by cutting her throat with a razor.

When the Clerk of the Court called upon him to plead, Vent, in a loud voice, with a smile on his face, replied "Guilty."

"Have you anyone appearing for you?" the Clerk asked.

"No," he replied.

Mr. Justice Talbot then conferred with the Clerk, during which time Vent, with his hands thrust deeply into his pockets, chatted with the warders on either side of him.

Mr. Justice Talbot then asked Mr. Anthony Hawke to see Vent and make sure he understood what he had done.

Vent was then put back. Shortly afterwards he was brought into the Court again.

Dr. Hugh Grierson, the medical officer of Brixton Prison, was then called. He said he had had Vent under observation. In his opinion Vent was sane.

The Judge—Do you think he is fit to plead? I have asked counsel to see him, and he has told me what is the result on his mind, but I want to be assured before going through his trial that he is capable of understanding what is going on.

Dr. Grierson—I think if he wished to do so he is quite capable of understanding.

Once again Vent was asked to plead to the charge, and again replied "Guilty."

He remained silent when asked if he had anything to say.

The black cap was then placed on the Judge's head, and his Lordship remarked:—"I am told by the doctor under whose supervision you have been, and who is a man of great experience, that you are capable of understanding the charge against you and capable of understanding what it means to plead guilty or not guilty. You have pleaded guilty, and, having pleaded guilty to a charge of murder, there is only one sentence which the law allows. You and others who will hear me understand this. When you go from here your condition of mind and every other fact in the case will be for those who have that responsibility to decide whether you are to suffer the sentence I am now about to pronounce upon you. I have no choice in the matter."

The Judge then passed sentence of death, while Vent smiled.

FREED FROM PAIN AT 95

After Suffering for Many Years

What a great thing it must be for this woman, after suffering from rheumatism for many years, to be free from pain again at her age. She writes:—"I should like to tell you that since I commenced taking Kruschen Salts two years ago, I am completely relieved of rheumatism, from which I had been a great sufferer for many years. I am now in my 95th year, and much appreciate being free from pain, which I attribute to the regular dose of Kruschen."—(Mrs.) A. E. S.

If only everyone would realize that the "little daily dose of Kruschen" is as important to internal cleanliness as soap and water are to external cleanliness, there would soon be no more constipation, no more sluggish livers, no more sluggish bowels, no more rheumatism, gout, or lumbago.

Kruschen is a combination of six salts—each one is necessary to some particular organ of the body. Just what you need to persuade your system back into a healthy condition: very gently but very, very surely!

broadly at the warders. He was then led across the dock, smiling at people at the back of the Court.

He said to me—the glass is going down—
there's a fine Scotch mist . . . !

I said to him—if that glass of Johnnie Walker goes over, there'll be the finest Scotch missed . . !

QUIET WEDDING

MR. HUGH-JONES MARRIES MISS R. ROSS

The wedding took place very quietly at St. John's Cathedral Chapel yesterday afternoon of Mr. Graeme Sison Hugh-Jones, well-known local solicitor, and Miss Beatrice Vivian Gues Ross. Puan Swann officiated at the ceremony.

Mr. Hugh-Jones is the youngest son of the late Llewelyn Hugh-Jones, C.B.E., and Mrs. Hugh-Jones of Beckenham, Kent, and is a member of the firm of Wilkinson and Grant. His bride, who is the second daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Roderick Ross, of Vancouver, B. C., was one of the many Hongkong visitors who were residing at the Unzen Hotel last year when fire broke out.

The bride, who was given away by Mr. H. Armstrong, looked charming in a nigger brown crepe dress trimmed with pink crepe and set off with a nigger brown hat. She carried a bouquet of pink carnations.

Miss Constance Bonnell, Secretary of the Helena May Institute, as bridesmaid, wore a green crepe tunic style gown with a black straw hat.

The duties of best man were undertaken by Mr. "Mickey" Wright.

After the wedding ceremony, a reception was held at 3, Thorpe Manor, the home of the bridegroom.

HOME POLITICAL OUTLOOK

It is quite evident, from continued references to the subject, that Mr. Ramsay MacDonald is not likely to remain Prime Minister much longer. Health considerations alone, apart from other factors, will be sufficient for him to hand over the leadership of the National Government in the not distant future; indications are that he will be succeeded by Mr. Baldwin. The time is not yet ripe for assessing Mr. MacDonald's contribution to the political life of the country, but it can at least be said that he performed a big national service when he put the country's well-being above party considerations and agreed to join hands with erstwhile political enemies in creating the present coalition Government. His stock, politically, has declined during the past two years, due, in part, to his somewhat inconclusive pronouncements on the big issues of the day, and also to the rising strength of opinion amongst Conservatives that, by reason of the preponderance of that school of thought in the Government, leadership should be assumed by a member of their party. It has certainly been anomalous, in view of comparative political strengths, that the Premiership should be held by a professed Labourite, although evidence has not been lacking for some time past that Mr. MacDonald has been veering distinctly towards the Right in his outlook. When the position is analysed, however, it will be realised that the supersession of Mr. MacDonald by Mr. Baldwin will have little political significance, inasmuch as the Government, despite its label, is for all intents and purposes a Conservative Administration. For ourselves, we are not amongst those who think there should be no reversion to party politics at this juncture. Indeed, it would be far more satisfactory all round were the Conservative Party to break from the National Government and stand on its own feet. It is clear, however, from the fact that a three-party National Publicity Bureau has been created for the purpose of keeping the policy, achievements and plans of the National Government before the country, that the intention is to fight the next election on the same basis as the last. The almost inevitable re-

NOTES OF THE DAY

PROGRESS

Among the documents discussed at the recent session of the Governing Body of the International Labour Organisation of the League of Nations, none was more interesting than the report of Mr. Tixier, a member of the Office, on his mission to Brazil, the Argentine, Uruguay and Chile. Mr. Tixier had gone to South America to study the working of the local social insurance institutions. He visited in each country the Government departments concerned, with the main social insurance institutions, and the central organisations of employers and workers. He was thus able to get a full and unbiased view of the situation, and his conclusions are particularly interesting. Mr. Tixier forms the definite conclusion that considerable effort has been made since the War in the development and effective application of social insurance legislation. Progress is particularly apparent in regard to invalidity, old age and widows' and orphans' insurance. The legislation on these points being as a general rule very advanced, and the payments frequently more liberal than in Europe, the insurance funds are generally well organised and the administrative standard of many of them is comparable with that of the best European funds. The laws are effectively applied and contributions fairly regularly paid. The principle of compulsory social insurance has even been offered in several recent constitutions, particularly in Brazil and Uruguay. It seems likely that social insurance legislation will develop rapidly in the future. There exists in Latin-America a lovely interest in the work of the International Labour Office and desire for closer co-operation with it.

AND DEPRIVITY

Side by side with this report of progress in social reform we see the spectacle of carnage in the Gran Chaco. Paraguay, according to a United Press despatch, has just sacrificed more than 23,000 lives in a vain attempt to smash a way to victory through the tottering Bolivian lines. Three years ago these two nations flew at one another's throats, and for three years, without a cessation of hostilities, men have fought and died in the fever-ridden swamp and jungle of the Valley of Death. For three years the world has been talking about measures to enforce a truce and settle the dispute in a civilised fashion. Naturally, after three years of warfare, a deep-rooted hatred has been nourished between the peoples of the two South American states. But that must be overcome. History has taught us that such a thing is possible. France and England, enemies for centuries, finally swore a blood brotherhood. America has never, since 1812, attempted to molest Canadians.

WORLD'S RESPONSIBILITY

Not one man in ten thousand knows what the Gran Chaco War is about. It is one of the most dreadful follies of the age. It is incredible that nations which are so near akin can continue this butchery, and it is pathetic that while their neighbour states plan for the future of their people, providing protection and prosperity for all classes, Bolivia and Paraguay should be wasting their blood and gold on profitless and protracted warfare which must ultimately reduce both to bankruptcy, starvation and internal revolt. Will the time come, we wonder, when the nations of the world will accept the responsibility humanity demands of them, and provide, through the League of Nations, a sufficiently powerful and disinterested organisation for the suppression of such crimes as the Gran Chaco War? Or must we retain the characteristics of barbarians in international politics? It does not require the vision of a seer to appreciate the danger to all our civilisation that remains as long as the world is without a guarantee that peace can be enforced, and that an aggressor nation can, and will, be disciplined.

sult will be that the National Government nominees will find themselves opposed in many constituencies by party candidates, a circumstance which will doubtless be welcomed by the Labourites, who will make their appeal as a more or less united unit. In view of this probability, it would appear bad generalship from the Conservative standpoint to attempt to preserve the coalition. The steady growth of the Labour vote in recent by-elections cannot be overlooked in this connection.

BABIES FOR BACHELORS

A Babe in the Arms is Worth Two Under The Mulberry Bush, Says the Local Expert

The report in the Telegraph on Wednesday that British birth records last year had broken all records since 1920 prompts Mr. Edward Kelly, the notorious father of seven, to make a few observations on this delicate subject.

Mr. Kelly has noticed with astonishment the absolute ignorance of bachelors in regard to the care of the young, and, in view of the fact that the baby season is almost upon us, feels that something should be done about it. Babies under two years of age need not read any further.

BABIES are born, not made.

It will be noticed in a fresh baby that it is of a pale, prawn-like colour, and is bald and toothless, exhibiting all the evidences that it is about to become a Peak taipan or a retired Colonel.

This is the usual thing, and the minder is not to be alarmed.

The first thing noticeable about the baby is the yowl. This must be stopped at all costs. There are various methods, but the principle to keep in mind is—at all costs.

Watches are very good; a firm hold must be kept on the chain, however, as we have on two occasions lost a perfectly good watch through the child swallowing it.

This mania for swallowing and sucking things may be indulged in to an almost unlimited extent. Door-knobs are excellent, though the holding of the baby to the knob is somewhat tiring. This may be overcome by unscrewing the hinges of the door and placing it in an accessible position.

Babies of an artistic nature, or of practically any nature, may be left with a tin of boot polish or a bottle of red ink or any other medium for an indefinite period.

In cases of persistent yowling, a belt passed over the top of the head and buckled securely under the chin is an infallible remedy. This must be used only in extreme cases.

In handling, care must be taken that the baby is held in a more or less vertical position, the head being uppermost. The child at times has a tendency to jerk from the holder, and in the case of a beginner this may lead to disastrous results.

Sticking-plaster and other first-aid appliances will be found very useful on these occasions, and a supply should always be kept on hand.

Where a baby has to be held for any length of time, a short loop of stout twine passed around the neck, and fastened to the wrist of the holder, will prevent contact with the floor.

Never allow a dog to lick the face of a baby, as any number of diseases may be communicated, and in the case of a valuable dog, this is most serious, and may lead to its loss or, at best, a falling-off of condition, and an absence of lustre in the coat.

On two or three occasions we have found the addition of about one-third of a cupful of rum to the feeding milk very effective. Only the best O.P. rum may be used, as babies are very delicately constituted internally. A better way is for the minder to have four or five cupful himself, when it will be found that an extraordinary number of ways of amusing the child will suggest themselves.

Should the little one inadvertently eat anything it shouldn't, thoroughly rinse or gargle the mouth with lysol or any other good disinfectant.

In undressing the baby for the purpose of putting it to bed, bathing, etc., the beginner will find great difficulty in undoing the numerous buttons, tapes, and various other fastenings with which it is lashed.

An efficient and obvious method is to insert a penknife between the skin and the clothing and peel the mass off in one operation. In bathing the child, never fill the bath right up, as it is only in exceptional cases that it will float. A cold shower and a brisk rub down with a still towel will have an invigorating and tonic effect.

In conclusion, a little helpful advice to the unwilling minder will not be amiss. Should you have been lured into minding a baby before, and wish to escape a second demand, a convincing excuse must be made. Lodge meetings and appointments, business or otherwise, are received with suspicion.

By far the best is the statement that you feel your diphtheria coming back, and that you seem to be breaking out in funny red spots all over the body. This may be said in a conversational manner just as the request is about to be sprung.

Conversing with babies is one of the most difficult things that must be undertaken sooner or later by the minder.

For instance, "Lartfry bhter makli krtt poff mpphff mwort lkghy iverrr umphh" may convey to an experienced mother that the baby wants its nappy changed, but unless the minder had had some considerable experience he cannot be expected to understand such things.

Minders should always bear in mind, in attempting to converse with infants, that the brain-darlings are not fully developed, and their brain does not completely function.

For this reason, mothers should always choose, where possible, Government officials as minders. Remember, also, that every baby is a potential member of the Hongkong Volunteers, and from early babyhood should be given toys that will make him volunteer-minded when he reached the adult stage. Babies have been known to grow into husky, virile sergeant majors, or even privates in the Reserve Company, through playing with empty beer barrels and whisky bottles while they were young.

Finally, we know of only one way in which you can get out of being a minder if you are bachelor.

Get married and have babies of your own. Then, while you spend your spare time at the Club, allow your or your wife's bachelor friends to do the dirty work.

CURRENT MOTOR NOTES

BY "ROADSTER"

A DANGER

To step off the Praya into the harbour may provide a subject for levity with some people, but it is anything but a joke to the person concerned. Quite a number of instances have occurred within recent years, but beyond the usual report of the incident in the Press, nothing appears to be done in the matter. The writer of these notes observed how easy it is to receive an unpleasant ducking when a lady narrowly escaped the unpleasant experience near Blake Pier the other afternoon. Several buses were picking up passengers, when the lady in question stepped back a few paces as a bus approached its stopping place within a few feet of the Praya wall. Fortunately she was warned just in time, otherwise another "paragaph" would have appeared. It is easy to imagine a serious, or even fatal accident occurring, and it is indeed surprising that railings have not been provided in the immediate vicinity of the pier and the corner of the wall on Connaught Road where it adjoins the pier.

PEAK TAXIS

The provision of a taxi stand at the top Peak Tram Station will doubtless prove of convenience to many people, especially with summer approaching. At the same time, it is opportune to again refer to the value the smaller type (as used in Kowloon) would be in the Peak district.

GOOD WORK

The surface drain on the south side of the Fire Brigade drill ground at Kowloon has been completed, and is proving most satisfactory. There is however, one suggestion to make, and that is that the posts which run along the small wall which has been constructed, should be cut down to the level of the wall, for as they are at present, damage is occasionally caused to rear lights of cars backing on to the wall. Quite a small matter, but the carrying of this suggestion into effect would be appreciated by many motorists.

CAFETERIA BEACH

At the exit from the Cafeteria Beach in the vicinity of Castle Peak, the track out leads over a concrete slab, which causes an unpleasant bump to vehicles proceeding away from this place. This could be easily remedied.

NATHAN ROAD

A Kowloon motorist—a resident of the Peninsula for many years, expressed the opinion the other day that Nathan Road is probably the most dangerous highway in the Colony. My informant pointed out that the very fact that the road is unusually wide, as roads go out here, is an inducement to some drivers to "step on the gas". The danger created by speeding in the uncontrolled sections of this road is manifest, for it is on account of the width of the road that pedestrians are liable to panic when crossing, finding themselves in the centre of a stream of vehicles rapidly moving in opposite directions. There is also the hazard caused by cars suddenly emerging from side streets into Nathan Road, the drivers of some of these swerving into the main Kowloon traffic artery almost regardless of the major flow of traffic which should have the right of way. In the controlled area, the limit of twenty miles per hour is merely disregarded by some drivers, and a few prosecutions would not be amiss. One has only to observe the incautious passing of other vehicles on this road, to realise that the world-wide axiom "Safety First" does not cut much ice with some local motorists. There is no objection, of course, to cars overtaking slower moving vehicles, providing there is no sudden swerving in the process of forcing ahead. The motorist who prompted this comment advocated a speed limit of twenty-five miles per hour over the whole of Nathan Road, and I am inclined to agree with him.

WATERLOO ROAD

Over a considerable portion of Waterloo Road, the surface is extremely rough, the comfort-wrecking "pot holes" being very much in evidence. This is especially noticeable north of the bridge, the surface of the road to the south, alongside the nullah, having been relaid with the widening in this vicinity. It is opportune to draw attention to the anticipated improvement which will be effected when the old dogs' home is demolished, and incidentally, it would appear to be about time that this necessary work should be carried out. When it is remembered that this thoroughfare is in constant use in the transportation of cases to the Kowloon Hospital, emphasis is given to the desirability of maintaining the surface in a good state of repair.

K.R.A. ANNUAL MEETING

PRESIDENT APPEALS FOR SUPPORT

"Long ago it became obvious that this Association had come to stay; and a glance at the report must, I think, convince even the most sceptical of its uses," remarked Mr. Leo D'Almada o Castro, Jr., who presided at the Annual General Meeting of the Kowloon Residents' Association held at the St. Andrew's Church hall yesterday evening.

Supporting the President were Mr. J. H. Shaw (Acting Hon. Secretary), Mr. R. P. Phillips and Mr. H. J. Bunje. Amongst those present were Messrs. W. J. Rattey, B. Wyllie, A. C. Jeffreys, D. W. Munton, R. Pentonji, T. B. Wilson, W. Goldenberg, E. Kern, E. Cock, and Lam Ming-fan.

President's Speech

Addressing the meeting the President said: "One of our chief concerns, as in the past, has been with the new Central British School. As mentioned in the Report, Government is now fully awake to the importance of its early completion, and the matter appears from reports from the school to be progressing at a slightly better rate than in the past. This improvement, however, cannot justify the optimism which prompted someone the other day to suggest that the school should be named to commemorate His Majesty's Silver Jubilee. It was indeed with difficulty that one refrained from pointing out that a more suitable occasion perhaps, would be the Golden Jubilee."

An attempt was made by your Committee last year to improve traffic facilities at the Star Ferry Circus by asking for the demolition of Messrs. Alex Ross' premises on their vacating it. This would have widened the bottle neck at this dangerous point, and added to the capacity of the car park. However, this was not to be, the Post Office having moved over to this building. As a temporary and long needed improvement to the postal facilities this is undoubtedly welcome, but Government must not be allowed to think that with a sop of this nature we are going to rest content with an indefinite postponement of the new building. Once on the subject of postal facilities, you will note with some satisfaction that these have been provided in other districts also where they have hitherto been lacking. Postal kiosks in the last few months have been opened in Kowloon Tong and Shamshuipo.

Slow Progress

That we do progress: if slowly, is also shown by a comparison of the position in regard to Kowloon Hospital, as mentioned in last year's speech, with the facts to-day. Last year's Chairman's hope was that we should be able to tell the annual meeting that the first child had been born in the Maternity Block. He was denied that pleasure, as the Block wasn't ready. This year, we are able to report that it has been opened for use at last, an occasion which I think should have been marked by the arrival of twins at least.

Persistent correspondence with Government on the subject of the amenities of Kowloon has resulted in a promise that Chatham Road's unsightly and unbecoming appearance soon be laid out neatly and attractively. This in itself may not be considered a matter of any great importance, but as an indication that the Association does gain the ear of the powers that be in many matters it is worthy of record.

A reference to the report will show the many and varied matters that have engaged the attention of the Committee during its term of office. Long ago it became obvious that this Association had come to stay; and its success and the report must, I think, convince even the most sceptical of its uses. One hears complaints from time to time that the Association achieves little of any value. This I emphatically deny. An unofficial body such as we are cannot, from its very nature, hope to run the Peninsula as it believes it should be run, but within its limits it has been eminently successful in bringing to the notice of Government various matters requiring attention.

Obdurate Officials

It may be as well to mention now that, on the whole, contact with Government officials in the course of the year has been most pleasant and helpful. For this we are grateful. There have been occasions, however, when certain officials have proved, if not hostile to the Association, at least unreasonably obdurate in their attitude to us, so that in these rare cases it has been necessary, in order to achieve our ends, to seek the assistance of another, and on one occasion, a superior department. Such an attitude may be the outcome of resentment at what might be considered an interference with the work of a particular department. If that be so, let me hasten to assure the officials concerned that nothing is further from the intentions of this Association. We have always striven as much as possible to make our activities co-operative with those of Government, insofar as they are consistent with the welfare of Kowloon and its residents.

I cannot let this occasion pass without some reference to the apathy shown by the majority of residents to this Association and its work. Our numbers have indeed increased in the last few years, but when one considers that in 1920, for example, when Kowloon Tong boasted a population of only thirty families and Prince Edward Road had not a single house, our membership was 200, an increase from that number to the present 302 is a very poor one proportionally to that of population. A members' subscription is only $2 a year and the deterrent cannot therefore be in this. With a larger membership the prestige

NEW TERRITORIES EDUCATION

STANDARD AND ATTENDANCE IMPROVED BY TRANSPORT

Speaking at the annual prize-giving ceremony in connection with the Un Long Government School yesterday, the Inspector of Schools (Mr. A. G. Brown) referred to transport facilities in the New Territories as having improved the standard of education there generally, and brought a marked increase in attendance at the school. He congratulated the masters and scholars on the general progress attained and wished them continued success.

The prizes were given away by Mrs. Brown. She thanked the Headmaster and staff for having asked her, for the second year in succession, to perform the ceremony, congratulated the prize-winners and had a word of encouragement for those who had not succeeded.

Mrs. Brown was presented with a bouquet by a girl pupil, and was also heartily cheered.

Headmaster's Report

In presenting his report for the past year, the Headmaster, Mr. Leo King-shum, said:

The year now reviewed has been a year of great satisfaction to us, both from the point of view of its attendance and of its activities.

The maximum enrolment of the year was 112 as against 108 in 1933; while the average daily attendance was 97 as against 85 in the preceding year. And with the co-operation of the whole staff, which consists of five masters—four local and one vernacular—we have been able to carry out the work of the school to our heart's desire.

The school building has been well taken care of, and every effort has been made to introduce cleanliness in the school and to cultivate a habit of neatness and good discipline among the pupils. We have paid special attention to the health of the school. Everything in the school is kept in the most hygienic conditions. It is not without great satisfaction that I now remark that every pupil in the school has enjoyed good health throughout the year and leave of absence granted on account of illness has thus been greatly reduced.

Senior Passes

Also I take great pleasure to remark that two of our past pupils passed the Senior Local Examination and both of them have now gone to universities in the interior of China.

With regard to classes, we had altogether three classes throughout, namely, 6, 7, and 8, but class 8 was divided into two divisions 8A and 8B. Referring to the games of the school, we have ping-pong, football, and basketball, the last being a game introduced into the school only at the first quarter of last year. A basketball ground was laid out at that time.

Our pupils now seem to be more brilliant and more lively than those of previous years, and this, perhaps, shows us that there is some improvement in the general intelligence in the community of Un Long.

Of this Association must inevitably gain, and more effectively, an appeal to those present to urge their friends and acquaintances to join.

The Association's thanks are due to the "Kowloon member," the Hon. Mr. J. P. Braga, for his interest in the work of the Association, and to those present to urge their friends and acquaintances to join. We are grateful also, to the Press, for publishing from time to time accounts of our activities, and I myself must thank members of the Committee for their support and kindly co-operation during my Chairmanship.

I am formally moving the adoption of the Report and Accounts for 1934, and when this has been seconded will be pleased to answer any questions thereon.

The proposal was seconded by Mr. E. Cock and adopted.

On the motion of the Chairman, seconded by Mr. Wyllie, Mr. Li Chor-chi was elected President.

Proposing that Mr. T. B. Wilson be elected Vice-President, Mr. H. F. Bunje said Mr. Wilson had been a member of the committee for two years and had done a lot of work on behalf of the Association.

The Chairman seconded the motion, which was passed unanimously.

Proposed by Mr. E. Kern and seconded by Mr. H. F. Bunje, Mr. J. H. Shaw was elected Hon. Secretary.

Proposed by Mr. W. J. Rattey and seconded by Mr. W. Goldenberg, Mr. R. P. Phillips was elected Hon. Treasurer.

The following were elected to the Committee:—Messrs. Leo D'Almada o Castro, Jr., F. C. Mow Fung, W. Goldenberg, C. M. Fung, H. F. Un, R. Pentonji, B. Wyllie, I. N. Murray, W. J. Rattey, Lam Ming-fan, E. Kern, C. M. Hall, Capt. R. Henderson, Roy J. R. Higgs, Lieut. Col. E. D. Matthews, Mr. D. W. Munton and Dr. B. de Souza.

Mr. A. C. Jeffreys, under the item of "Any Other Business," said it was originally intended that three Kowloon members should be elected to the new Urban Council, but now the number had been reduced to two. He asked if it was possible for the K.R.A. to take the matter up and find out why the reduction was necessary.

The Chairman replied that the matter would be put before the incoming Committee before the meeting terminated. Mr. T. B. Wilson proposed a vote of thanks to the retiring President. He said that if they had achieved anything in the past year, the bulk of the credit lay at the door of the retiring President.

This was heartily endorsed by the meeting.

Mr. W. Goldenberg proposed a vote of thanks to the retiring President. He said that if they had achieved anything in the past year, the bulk of the credit lay at the door of the retiring President.

This was heartily endorsed by the meeting.

TENNIS CHAMPIONSHIP

LIKELY DOUBLES FINALISTS

CAPT. MANNERS AND FINCHER

WARWICK SHUTE BELOW FORM

(By "Veritas").

If Captain Manners can tighten up his volleying and overhead, he and E. C. Fincher will probably reach the final of the open doubles tennis championship this year and they will give the Rumjahn cousins a good run for their money.

Yesterday Manners and Fincher entered the semi-final as a result of beating Liang-Sai-wa and P. H. Kwok in straight sets. The winners showed very promising form with the exception of Manners' net work which was variable and through which he committed a number of unexpected errors. Captain Manners' drive is one of the best in local tennis. His short swing and use of a flat racket is highly reminiscent of E. D. Andrews. The pace which he obtained off the ground frequently disconcerted Liang and Kwok who found themselves driven out of court by the excellent length of the shot.

Had Manners allowed Fincher to take a more prominent place in the net exchanges the two would have won much easier. But Manners blatantly poached, and being somewhat unsteady from the forecourt, lost several points.

FINCHER'S COOLNESS

Fincher was cool and resourceful and his doubles game does not appear to have suffered much by his rather infrequent association with the tennis courts during the last few months. He whipped out the same old decisive shots from the net and made great play with his chopped backhand drive. In the first set he lobbed almost perfectly, passing Liang-Sai-wa every time, but in the second stanza Liang quickly moved back a couple of yards and was able to deal with the lob.

Liang and Kwok made a fairly good showing in the second set, but the former could not get his ground strokes operating properly at any time, and Kwok did most of the point winning. They seemed to be beaten by pace as much as anything else.

The brothers fulfilled predictions by beating Wong and Ho in three sets. They made a slow start as usual, but after the first set went in the end, and sustained it until the end. Both brothers were splendid overhead, although the poor length lobbing of the losers assisted them in no small measure. The best tennis was in the final set which saw the winners playing most impressively.

NERVOUS WARWICK

Warwick Shute seemed to be suffering from nerves in his second round singles tie against Y. W. Lee. Certainly he did not find anything like his proper form until the second set and then, after twice breaking through Lee's service, he lost this advantage by conceding his own service.

Lee's good length driving to both corners constantly found Shute on the wrong foot. In the opening set, while the schoolboy, failing to vary his direction, made things rather simpler for the Chinese who always had plenty of time in which to position himself.

In the second set Shute brightened up considerably, and maintaining a succession of forceful forehand drives which Lee treated in too nonchalant a fashion pulled himself up from 2-5 to 4-5 by winning Lee's and his own.

Petersen To Fight In Lighter Class

GIVEN AWAY TOO MUCH WEIGHT

(By Geoffrey Simpson)

"Jack Petersen's future, temporarily, is likely to be spent in the light-heavyweight class."

This was the surprising declaration by the British heavy-weight champion's father and manager, Mr. J. T. Petersen, when I discussed with him his son's plans.

"It may as well be stated now that Jack's weight is little above the light-heavyweight poundage of 12st. 7lb," he said. "In fact, I think it ought to be stressed in view of all the criticism which was poured on him after his defeat by Walter Neusel last Monday week."

"My boy's weight that night was 12st. 10lb. to the German's 14st. 2lb. He has been giving weight away wholesale since he became champion in his efforts to put British heavy-weight boxing on the map."

"Oh, yes! It has been good experience, but if the opportunity arises for Jack to fight as a light-heavyweight and win the world title in that division I think we shall take it."

"Pa" Petersen scoffs at the suggestion that the boy whom he began to teach boxing when he was knee-high has reached the limit of his ability.

"Why—he's only 23! There's heaps of time yet, and as for the defeat by Neusel, don't forget that Jack Dempsey was knocked out before he became champion."

"His eye injury? It is healing fine. It has been treated by a specialist and we have no fears about it. Maybe it will leave a tiny scar, but all Jack says about it is that it makes his third cut, and with three stripes he is now a sergeant!"

WEEK-END SHIELD FOOTBALL

Club Must Feed Bickford To Beat Police

ATHLETIC SHOULD WIN

(By "Veritas")

With the Police at full strength and the Club turning out the same team which sensationally beat South China "A", to-day's Senior Shield semi-final at Caroline Hill not only ensure a huge crowd, but a rattling good match.

So far as forecasting the result is concerned one is forced to the conclusion that anything may happen. The Club certainly have their magnificent second round victory to give them moral encouragement, but the Police are capable of rising to an occasion.

If the Club have learnt anything of value from recent matches they will make certain that Bickford is well supplied with passes quite apart from the fact that in his own right Bickford is a more dangerous winger. Fowler, I cannot see the latter making a great deal of headway against such experienced men as Parker and Chris Pile. The Club can expect to profit much more by concentrating on the left wing.

But should make it his duty to see that Bickford is given a fair chance. The inside left has been making the mistake of playing too far back. Attack is the thing which wins matches.

Judged by comparative performance this year, the Police appear to be a slightly better balanced team, and their forwards are certainly livelier. Moss, Pile, Stephens and Johnston need a lot of stopping once they have jumped into their stride. I think that Robertson is capable of holding up Tommy Pile, but Gamble may have an anxious time against Stephens, who is one of the cleverest schemers in local football.

The Police have a slightly more efficient half back line, but in defence there is nothing to choose.

ATHLETIC SHOULD WIN

To-morrow should see the Athletic find their way into the final. They expect to be at full strength, which means that Tsui Ah-fai, Chan Chun-wo and Ho Ka-keung will be on view. Against such a team South China "B" do not seem to stand much chance. It was the same team which all but beat South China first string in the league a few weeks ago, and it was the Athletic players who played so well in the Governor's Cup last Sunday.

South China "B" are again calling on the service of Pau Ka-ping, at one time the finest player in the Colony to don a goalkeeper's sweater. Pau returns between the "sticks," and if anyone can stop the Athletic from winning, Pau is the man to do it.

The match is being played at Sookunpo, and this may upset the Athletic, who are not keen on this small enclosure, as witness how they lost to the Royal Artillery recently.

On the other hand South China seem perfectly content with this ground, and this may determine itself into an important factor.

But if the Athletic play true to form I do not see how they can lose.

THE JUNIOR SHIELD

Although the Royal Engineers have a very nice record, I do not expect them to survive their semi-final tie in the Junior Shield against the Navy to-day.

By the same token, with a forward line which includes Sandford, Kidding and Griffin, all of whom played in the Army trial this week, I anticipate that East Lancashires will beat South China juniors in the other semi-final at Sookunpo to-morrow.

South China played splendid football on the same ground to beat the Artillery in the previous round, but this time they are against a different proposition, and an East Lancashires v. Navy final is indicated.

The players expected to participate in the week-end Shield matches are—

ENGLAND GOES TO PIECES

With six wickets to fall, the close the visitors were 308 runs behind in the first innings. The West Indies completely outplayed England to-day in Kingston, Mar. 15.

Two records were broken during the day's play. Headley, by scoring 270 not out registered the highest individual innings ever made by a West Indian against England in Test cricket, while West Indies total of 535 for 7 declared is the highest aggregate ever compiled by West Indies against England.

England made a disastrous start. R.E.S. Wyatt was knocked out by a blow on the jaw in attempting to avoid a rising ball from Martindale, and the English skipper had to be conveyed to hospital for X-Ray examination.

After that the visitors lost Hammond, Paine, Holmes and Townsend for 27 runs.

BIX SIXTH WICKET STAND

Continuing their overnight score of 235 for two, a further 59 runs were added by Sealey and Headley before the former was clean bowled after scoring 91. Constantine scored 34 out of the next 48 runs added for the fourth wicket, and after Fuller and Headley had left with only 29 runs added, Headley and Rolfe Grant became associated in a prolific partnership which yielded 147. Rolfe Grant helped himself to 77 before dismissal.

With the score at 535 for 7, the innings was declared closed, Headley carrying his bat for a brilliant 270 which included 30 boundaries.

Martindale proved almost unplayable when England went into bat. After Wyatt's injury, the fast bowler captured the wickets of Townsend, Paine and Holmes in quick succession, and caused an England debacle.

INTERNATIONAL GAMES RALLY FOR DEAF

UNIQUE SPORTS EVENT TO BE HELD IN LONDON THIS YEAR

ENTRANTS FROM 17 COUNTRIES

London, Mar. 15. Deaf people from all parts of the world will hold an international games rally here August 17 to 24.

There are seventeen nations affiliated to the Comité International des Sports Silencieux (International Committee of Silent Sports), and fifteen of them are definitely competing. These are Austria, Belgium, Czechoslovakia, Denmark, Finland, France, Germany, Great Britain, Holland, Hungary, Italy, Norway, Poland, Sweden, Switzerland, The United States and Japan are also expected to send teams.

The track and field events will cover the complete Olympic programme with the exceptions of the marathon, steeplechase, hop-step-jump, or country race, decathlon, hammer-throw, and walking. Four competitors from each country may take part in each event.

The women will have the 100-metres, high jump, broad jump, shot-put, and 400-metres relay.

There will also be swimming—seven events for men, and four for women; diving, cycling, lawn tennis, and association football.

The first international deaf meet was in Paris in 1924, when nine nations participated, and the International Committee was founded. At Amsterdam in 1928 ten nations took part; at Nuremberg, in 1931, there were 14.

The world's records for deaf athletes are not imposing, and it is doubtful whether they can ever be first-class. This is because the number of deaf people is comparatively small, and they are much handicapped where coaching is concerned. The running records correspond to a fairly good high-school standard. In the field events they are a little better.

For instance, the record for the shot-put is 43ft. 2in., for the discus 124ft. 6in., and for the javelin 164ft. 11in. These figures represent an immense advance in the last ten years. Scandinavia was the first to cater for the deaf athlete. It was in Copenhagen in 1905 that a Swedish club met a Danish club in the first athletic match for deaf teams from different countries. In 1906 it became a full international match between Sweden and Denmark. In 1907 Finland came in, and in 1910 Norway made it a four-cornered match.

In 1916 Vienna and Budapest began a long series of association football matches, and in 1922 France and Belgium played the first international football match confined to deaf players.

In the first comprehensive international games in 1924 France swept the boards, thanks to a vast superiority in athletics and cycling. At Amsterdam in 1928 Germany, a new competitor, won with 125½ points to France's 105. Both did well in athletics, but Germany's swimmers turned the scale.

At Nuremberg in 1931, a young Danish team set a new standard for deaf runners, but again the German swimmers outclassed everybody, and Germany's final score was 280 points to France's 170, and Denmark's 143.—United Press.

MOST EXTRAORDINARY BOAT RACE IN HISTORY

Expected From This Year's Inter-Varsity Event

OXFORD'S HEAVIEST CREW ON RECORD

London, Mar. 15.
The Oxford and Cambridge boat-race on April 6 will be the most extraordinary in the history of the inter-varsity event.

Oxford already have the heaviest crew and the largest boat on record.
Now, also for the first time in the history of the race, it seems that neither captain will row. Cambridge's N. J. Bradley has a bad knee through a skiing accident and Oxford's W.
H. Money thinks that he can best help the crew by coaching from the river-bank.

Most extraordinary of all, however, is that the struggle, as between the two universities, is likely to be overshadowed by a test between the different styles of rowing.

Oxford will use the orthodox manner and fixed rowlocks, while Cambridge will use swivels and a style all of their own. The difference is that the Cambridge men are concentrating on perfection of blade-work, ignoring the body movement, while the Oxford crew is learning to "positionise" the body and thus try to copy the perfect oarsman. This is something like telling a golfing novice to swing like Bobby Jones.

ESSENTIAL DIFFERENCES

The difference in the styles is noticeable. Oxford are more erect, and have a greater appearance of catching the beginning of the stroke with the shoulders. Cambridge row with a looser and easier action, and one that is less noticeable to the eye.

This question of style is the reason that Coach Peter Haig Thomas, orthodox and fixed rowlock theorist, who coached Cambridge through their record succession of eleven victories, is now training Oxford his rival university.

The blade-work style, introduced by the great Steve Fairbairn, had been growing more and more popular among the Cambridge colleges. Then when Cambridge's new captain, Bradley, voted for it and swivel rowlocks, King Thomas indignantly withdrew.

Oxford were delighted to welcome him, although his allegiance still seems to be with Cambridge. Recent-

SOCCER SIDELIGHTS

London, Mar. 15.
A former Sunderland and Liverpool star who finally found a berth

with the Swin-don club, is Albert Gunson,
the winger
with the pleasant face, hefty
foot, and long,
raking stride.
Gunson first
made a name
as a smart, aggressive outside left with Sunderland,
but started his
travels by Albert Gunson moving to Liverpool. This Club transferred him to his present team's headquarters, where he found a warm welcome awaiting him from Ted Vizard, the Swindon manager, who was himself classed as one of the world's best outside lefts in his active playing days.
Gunson settled down under Vizard and is playing a splendid brand of football for the Swindon eleven.

service in succession. Serving again, Warwick had bad luck with a couple of placements which landed just the wrong side of the line, and Lee, playing steadily, eventually ran to his points.

The bright feature of Warwick's play in this set was his smart recoveries, and his partially successful attempt to force the pace. He certainly lured Lee into an unexpected number of mistakes. By this defeat Warwick at least had the satisfaction of revealing a fighting spirit.

QUIETLY METHODICAL

Lee was quietly methodical throughout. Without taking things too easy he refused a severely concentrated attack, content rather to wait for Shute to adopt the initiative. In Lee, the tournament has a player of big advancement, and one who, if he continues to improve will very soon be challenging the best in Hongkong.

HOCKEY

St. Andrew's Beat Suffolk

An evenly contested Manak Hockey Tournament match was witnessed on the Naval ground at King's Park yesterday afternoon, when St.
Andrew's Club defeated H. M. S.
Suffolk by three goals to two. All the goals were scored in the first half.
The Saints commenced play with only ten men, Selk arriving a few minutes late. The Suffolk were early pressing and a miskick on the part of Guest, in goal for the Saints, led to Kirke giving the sailors the lead.
The Saints retaliated and a good forward movement resulted in Col-ledge striking the upright. Carroll followed up and netted the equaliser.
The Suffolk again took the lead through Kirke, E. F. Fincher replaying for the civilians to level the score.

Before the interval, Bliss, playing on the right wing, went through on his own to score the goal which proved to be the deciding point of the game.

Play in the second half was fairly even each goal being scored alternately but the defences on both sides played well. Both Kirke and Pullman had bad luck not to score.

For the Saints, White, Hamson, Selk and Carroll were outstanding,
while Newsom, Phillips, Christian, Smith, Kirke and Pullman shone for the sailors. Christian-Smith, playing at right half back, was conspicuous for his stopping and hitting on the reverse stick.

Sequel To Governor's Cup Incidents

A. V. GOSANO CENSURED
The unfortunate incidents in the Governor's Cup football match, which led to two prominent Interport players, A. V. Gosano and Lee Tin-sang, being ordered off the field, had a sequel yesterday when the Emergency Committee of the Hongkong Football Association investigated their cases.

It was recalled that Lee Tin-sang was ordered off the field following an incident in which he is alleged to have struck B. Gosano; while A.
V. Gosano was later ordered off the field for allegedly kicking Fung Kingcheung.

Gosano's good record in the past was taken into account, while Lee had been before the Emergency Committee earlier in the season.

FOOT HEALTH

Surely it is one of the strangest penalties of civilisation—and perhaps one of the least recognised—that the vast majority of people suffer from foot deformed by shoes.

It is said that a Court dandy in the reign of Richard II first devised the pointed shoe. He had short, broad, deformed feet and became the butt of his companions' jokes; so he fashioned a shoe with a long, delicate, up-turned point which the ladies considered so dainty and amusing that it soon became the fashion.

This legacy of pointed toes has been handed down to our present generation and does infinite harm to countless thousands to-day. The writer has been associated with Foot Health and the work of Foot Hospitals for some years. In nearly all cases, the lesions complained of have arisen from badly fitting shoes. To have comfortable shoes which will maintain foot-health indefinitely, one must have a shoe somewhat different from the usual. It may take time to get used to it, but surely it is worth while when it means so much in the cause of comfort.

Let us then consider the Sir Herbert Barker Shoe.

The proof of any pudding is in the eating, and so the following summary of wearers' opinions is particularly interesting:—

APPEARANCE:—	Percentage of Replies
	Yes.	No.
(1) When you first saw "Sir Herbert Barker Shoes," did their appearance attract you?	49%	51%
(2) If you did not at first like their appearance are you now quite reconciled to it?	95%	5%
(3) Do you consider it wise, to attach more importance to comfort than to other considerations?	100%	—
COMFORT:—
	Yes.	No.
(4) Have you formerly experienced any difficulty in procuring really comfortable ready-made Shoes?	83%	17%
(5) Since wearing "Sir Herbert Barker" Shoes have you noticed any of the following points
(a) Greater comfort when walking?	93%	7%
(b) Are your feet less tired after a strenuous day?	82%	18%
(c) Do corns trouble you still?	26%	74%
(6) Are you satisfied that the ready-made Shoes which are found in most Shoe Shops to-day conform to the natural form of the foot?	4%	96%

Those who invest in the Sir Herbert Barker Shoe will find no further use for metal contraptions falsely called foot supports, but by allowing their feet to revert to their original form and function they will regain their original strength and usefulness.

Locally, the Sir Herbert Barker Shoes for Men can be obtained from

Found in Film on teeth... the germs of tooth decay!

Buried beneath an ever-forming film, this invisible enemy attacks enamel and destroys the part beneath. To fight decay, you must remove film every day.

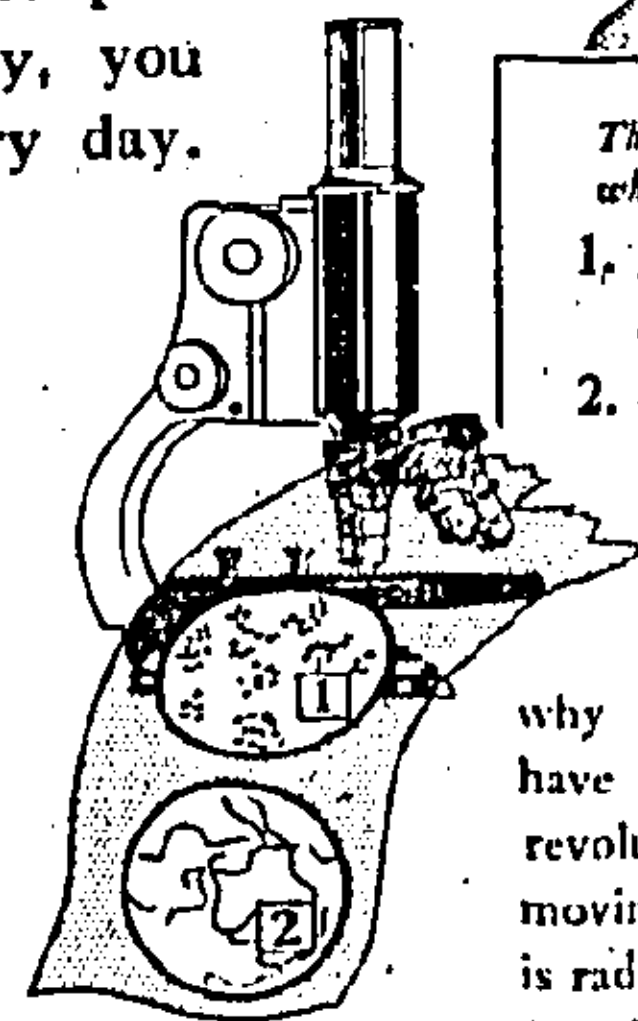

YOU don't need a microscope to pick out film-stained teeth. The naked eye can see them, for film is discolored.

But where the naked eye sees ugliness, the microscope sees danger. Magnify film 1,000 times and you will see living germs of many kinds.

Destroyers of lovely teeth

Lactobacilli are "germs of tooth decay." They feed on particles of food that cling to teeth. They give off acid that dissolves tooth enamel, then devours the part beneath. Finally the nerve is reached.

The film scraped from a single tooth may easily contain millions of living organisms. The only way science accepts of removing germs from teeth is to remove the protective film-coat in which they multiply. Film defies all ordinary ways of brushing. That's

This is what the scientist finds when he analyzes film on teeth:
1. A species of Lactobacilli now held responsible for tooth decay by many authorities.
2. A species of Streptococci Pyogenes.

why Pepsodent laboratories have developed a new and revolutionary material for removing ugly, stubborn film. It is radically different from any found in other tooth pastes, different in composition and in action.

Some tooth pastes clean with materials so hard that they scratch enamel. The new material in Pepsodent is soft—twice as soft as the material commonly used in dentifrices. Yet it shows extraordinary power in removing film and giving brilliant polish.

This new cleansing and polishing material is contained in Pepsodent exclusively. Remember that when you are tempted to save money on cheap tooth pastes.

IRELAND'S NIGHT

BRILLIANT FUNCTION AT PENINSULA HOTEL

The last of the national gatherings which are a feature of Hong Kong's social season was held last evening. The occasion was St. Patrick's Ball, when Irish exiles in the Colony were hosts to over 500 guests at the Peninsula Hotel.

The Rose Room and Roof Garden presented a colourful spectacle, the national colours of emerald green and yellow, which were the main setting for the decorative scheme, contrasting with the admirable effect with the gorgeous multi-hued dresses of the lady guests and the brilliant uniforms of the military and naval officers who attended.

The guests of honour were His Excellency the Governor, Sir William Peel and Lady Peel, His Excellency Major General O. C. Borrett and Mrs. Borrett, His Honour the Chief Justice, Mr. A. D. A. MacGregor, and Commodore Frank Elliott, R.N., Mrs. MacGregor and Mrs. Elliott were unable to attend.

Mr. A. Ritchie is to be complimented on the delightful scheme of decoration which transformed the two Ballrooms. In the Rose Room, where the official dais was situated, large streamers of emerald green and yellow were hung from the centre of the ceiling to the pillars, at the top of which crests of the different towns in Ireland were in position. Behind the dais was hung the composite shield of the four counties, Ulster, Cork, Leinster and Munster.

Green and white also adorned the pillars in the Roof Garden, at the far end of which was hung another composite shield. The Crush Hall was decorated with evergreens and hung with the shields which were draped in flags.

The door to the "liquid refreshment" room bore the word "Shebeen" and was surmounted by a large shield of Messrs. Guinness, Dublin.

Arrival of the Governor. Shortly after 9.20 p.m. Mr. B. H. Collis Hallows, President of St. Patrick's Society, the Hon. Dr. W. B. A. Moore, Past President, and Messrs. F. P. R. James and T. Murphy, vice-presidents, assembled at the main entrance of the Hotel and received the guests of honour and conducted them via the West lifts to the top floor.

At 9.30 p.m. the other official guests, Professor F. Redmond, Mrs. Lindsell, the Hon. Mr. C. G. Alabaster, Lady Shenton, the Hon. Mr. N. L. Smith, Miss R. Alabaster, the Hon. Mr. R. M. Henderson, Mrs. N. L. Smith, the Hon. Sir Henry Pollock, Mrs. R. M. Henderson, the Hon. Sir Shouson Chow, assembled in the Ball Room at the dais. Ten minutes later His Excellency the Governor and Mr. Collis Hallows, His Excellency Major General O. C. Borrett and Lady Peel, His Honour the Chief Justice Mr. A. D. A. MacGregor and Mrs. Borrett, Commodore

Frank Elliott and the Hon. Dr. W. B. A. Moore, Mr. F. P. R. James and Mrs. Elliott, and Mr. T. Murphy and Miss Redhead, accompanied by their Excellencies A.D.C.s and Mr. J. Hosford (Hon. Treasurer) and Mr. R. F. Edwards (Continued on Page 11.)

FOOT COMFORT—

Gordon's shoes are up-to-date, superior in manufacture, and appearance, designed to give absolute comfort.

Compared with a cheap shoe they are a much better investment in that they will outlast several pairs of inferior quality, giving you lasting wear, and sturdy service.

An advanced exhibition will be on display this week.

As a result of the rising dollar, these shoes, while maintaining our usual high standard, are considerably lower in price.

The TIME TEST and 'ASPRO'

THE old idea that a dozen medicines were needed for a dozen complaints—that laying up for indefinite periods was necessary—that it was also necessary to take dangerous drugs and narcotics—was an illusion. 'ASPRO' has dispelled it. For it is the medicine that takes the place of a dozen medicines, because, after ingestion in the system, it is an internal antiseptic—an anti-pyretic or fever reducer—an anti-periodic—a powerful germicide, and a solvent of Uric Acid, and, therefore, banishes the causes of numerous complaints. That's why 'ASPRO' banishes headaches in five minutes. It's the time test for quick action, and it stands the test of time. 'ASPRO' soothes the irritable—brings sweet sleep to the sleepless—relieves rheumatism in one night—smashes colds and influenza at inception. Furthermore, 'ASPRO' does not harm the heart or the stomach. It can be taken by all, from child to parent, anywhere, any time. The price is within the reach of all.

RESULTS in 5 MINUTES

'ASPRO' Hunts Out Neuralgia and Rheumatism

148 Nicholson Street, N.S.
Dear Sir, I give me great pleasure to pen these lines of appreciation for the wonderful benefit I have derived through taking your 'ASPRO' Tablets. I have been for some time a martyr to NEURALGIA and RHEUMATISM, and have tried various remedies, but without any beneficial results. I was advised by a friend to try 'ASPRO', which advice I took, with remarkable results. After taking six tablets, my Neuralgia disappeared. I continued taking two after every meal, and can now thankfully say that I am free from any pain, either Rheumatic or Neuralgic. You will, therefore, quite understand the pleasure I derive in recommending such a wonderfully simple medicine to other sufferers.

Yours faithfully,
(Sd.) FRANK AUSTIN

SERIAL STORY—

SILKEN SPINDLES

by Laura Lu Brookman

BEGIN HERE TO-DAY.

GALE HENDERSON, pretty and 23, works in a silk mill. She and her 10-year-old brother, PHIL, support their invalid father, ERNIE MEYERS, who also works in the mill. Gale is to marry him. She promises to give him an answer in a few days. Later that evening Gale was skating on the river, past the bridge, and is rescued by BRIAN WESTMORE, whose father, now dead, built the mill. Brian asks Gale to wait while he gets his car but when he returns she is gone.

Brian has come home after two years in Paris, convinced he can never be an artist and eager to go to work in the mill. VICKY THATCHER, daughter of ROBERT THATCHER, general manager of the mill, schemes to seduce Brian.

Brian sees Gale in the mill and recognizes her. Next evening he asks to see her. She refuses, but Brian sees her together and later he and Gale quarrel.

Lonely, Gale goes skating again. She meets Brian and they skate together. He tells her of his plans to leave the mill and go to work in a bank.

That night her father is taken ill. She goes to his room and finds him dead. She calls the police and the doctor.

CHAPTER XVII
Dr. Carr folded the stethoscope and slipped it into his pocket. He was a little man with a very round face and bushy gray eyebrows. He wore spectacles set down on his nose, and that he had to peer downward to see through them.

"Well," he said, sitting down in a chair beside the bed, "what have you been doing lately?" He leaned forward, putting his hand on Tom Henderson's wrist.

"I've been feeling pretty good," the man in bed told him. The heavy breathing had stopped but Tom Henderson's voice sounded weak and spent. "I've felt better lately than I have for a long time—until this spell came on to-night."

Gale was standing at the other side of the bed. She said, "Yes, Doctor, he told us that yesterday. He's been getting out for a little walk every day—"

"How far'd you go?" Doctor Carr asked. "Just to the corner." "Too far," he said. "Just what I thought. You've been over-doing it, Henderson. That's what always happens. As soon as a man begins to feel better he thinks he can get out and do as much as he ever did. Well—he can't. Body's like any other machine; when it's used up it's got to have rest. Now for the next two or three days I want you to stay in bed. Right here in bed, understand?"

He looked up at Gale then. "I'll write a prescription," he went on. "You can have it filled to-morrow. Keep on with the other medicine, just as I told you. And see that your father stays off his feet."

"Yes, Doctor." "I think you'll sleep now," the man said. "Best thing for you, too. And, remember, to-morrow you're to stay in bed all day. I'll drop around again to-morrow or the next day and see how you're feeling. Be on my way now. Good night!"

Gale followed the doctor into the outer room. Her eyes held the question she dreaded putting into words.

"Doctor?" "There's nothing to worry about," he reassured her. "So long as your father does as I've told him. Those walks were too much for him. See that he takes his medicine and stays off his feet. That's the only cure there is—just rest. All anyone can do for him. See that he gets it."

He had taken a pen out and was writing on a sheet of paper. "Here's the prescription," he said. He went to the door.

CHAPTER XVIII
The clock on the table ticked monotonously. Gale could not see it from where she sat, but she knew it must be 4 o'clock, or later. She heard a train whistle and then there was silence again except for the clock's ticking. Gale closed her eyes.

Bright sunlight, streaming through the window, awakened her. For a moment she did not know where she was. Then she jumped to her feet and hurried to her father's room. He was sleeping quietly. Gale closed the door and went to wake her brother.

on with instructions about the medicine and a moment later was at the door.

"I'll drop around in a day or two," he repeated. "Good night—guess it's nearer morning, though."

Gale said, "Good night, Doctor," and stood for a moment looking out at the darkness. In an hour or so the sky would be growing light again. She thought of the old phrase, "Always darkness before dawn," and thought that it was certainly true of the night, at least.

Was it true of other things, too? She closed the door and locked it and turned to see her brother waiting in the hallway.

"How is he now?" Phil asked. "Better, I guess. The doctor gave him something to make him sleep. Doctor Carr says there's no danger of another attack so long as he keeps quiet. He'll have to stay in bed for a few days."

"Can he stay here alone?" "I thought maybe Mrs. O'Connor would be willing to come in and bring him some lunch at noon and perhaps stop in once or twice during the day to see if there's anything he wants. If she can't we'll have to get someone else. You'd better go to bed, Phil, and get some sleep if you can."

"Aren't you going?" "I'll wait up for a little while. I'm not sleepy."

She went to the door of her father's bedroom and looked inside. He was lying with his eyes closed. Gale entered quietly and turned out the light. Her father moved on his pillow, murmuring something that was inaudible. Gale said, "Good night," and slipped from the room.

She went back to the living room and sat down in the big chair by the window. It was true that she did not feel sleepy now—merely tired—but she wanted to be near in case her father should call. She couldn't feel sure that he was really all right again. Those terrible moments, waiting until the doctor came, still haunted her.

Gale leaned back in her chair and thought that the night seemed endless. Could it possibly have been only the evening before that she had been down on the river, skating with Brian Westmore?

She put the thought from her mind. She didn't want to think of that now.

The clock on the table ticked monotonously. Gale could not see it from where she sat, but she knew it must be 4 o'clock, or later. She heard a train whistle and then there was silence again except for the clock's ticking. Gale closed her eyes.

Bright sunlight, streaming through the window, awakened her. For a moment she did not know where she was. Then she jumped to her feet and hurried to her father's room. He was sleeping quietly. Gale closed the door and went to wake her brother.

"Phil!" she said. "Get up. It's late—almost 7 o'clock!"

When Phil appeared in the kitchen, sleepy-eyed and with his hair still damp from the wet comb he had used on it, Gale was pouring coffee. There was cereal on the table, a plate of toast and another containing a fried egg.

"Sit down and eat," she told him. "I'm going to run over to see Mrs. O'Connor."

"Aren't you going to have breakfast?" "I've had mine. Just leave everything on the table where it is. I'll have to do the dishes to-night."

She was out of the room and back again an instant later, pulling on her coat. "Father's asleep," she said. "I guess it will be all right to leave him if Mrs. O'Connor can come over."

Mrs. O'Connor could. She listened sympathetically to Gale's account of what had happened the night before, and said she'd be glad to take Tom Henderson his lunch. The poor man—him such a hard worker and always glad to do a good turn for a neighbor. Sure, she'd see he had something to eat. Vegetable soup, they were going to have that day and there'd be plenty and to spare. Yes, and she'd run in in the middle of the morning and later in the afternoon to see if there was anything the man wanted. Yes, indeed.

"Tim's brother you know," Mrs. O'Connor confided, "he had them spells when he couldn't get his breath. Oh, it was terrible. I've seen him that bad. I'm telling you."

The shrill blast of a whistle interrupted. "Oh!" exclaimed Gale, panic-stricken. "I'll be late at the mill here, Mrs. O'Connor, here's the key."

She turned and fled down the walk.

Her breath was still coming in deep gasps as she entered the big room and hurried to her place. She bent her head, fingers flying. Somehow she knew though she did not look up, that Fisher, the foreman, was crossing the room, coming toward her. She knew what he would say. She had heard him say it to others.

"You there!" The big man was scowling down at her. "Yes, Mr. Fisher."

The heavily sarcastic voice rose loudly. "So you decided to come to work to-day, did you? Well, that's certainly very nice! Made up your mind at the last minute, I suppose—after you'd heard the whistle. Do you know what time the switches are turned on here?"

"Yes, Mr. Fisher."

"Oh, you do! Well, has anyone ever called your attention to the fact that you're supposed to be here, in this room, when the switches are turned on?"

"Yes."

"Then what's the idea of coming in five minutes late? Do you think you can get away with that? Do you think we can run this mill with everyone coming to work when they please?"

Girls all around heard what he was saying. It was impossible for them not to hear. Gale's cheeks were burning but her head was erect.

Without waiting for an answer Fisher went on. "Maybe you think there ought to be some changes around here—so you can drop in to work whenever you feel like it! Well, let me tell you, there'll be changes all right if this happens again. Five minutes late, you were. Five minutes later if it happens again. Miss Highsmith, those'll be a new girl standing right where you are. Do you understand that? You'll be through!"

Gale said, "Yes, Mr. Fisher." She could scarcely hear her own voice but she got the words out.

He started away and then turned back. "If it happens once more—" he said menacingly.

Gale did not answer. She bent her head and snapped a hobbie off. (To Be Continued).

CINEMA NEWS

NOTES FROM THE THEATRES

Elissa Landi, who recently had a leading role in Paramount's "The Great Flirtation" as a tempestuous and temperamental actress, is again cast in a vivacious role in Paramount's "Enter Madame". The picture, in which she is co-starred with Cary Grant will be seen from to-morrow at the Queen's Theatre. Miss Landi in "Enter Madame" which was adapted from the successful stage play of the same name, plays the part of a beautiful and vivacious opera star, who treats her husband, Cary Grant, as somebody whose importance lies in between her pet dog and her singing career. Tiring of his beautiful wife's treatment, Grant leaves her and returns to the United States where he looks up an old sweetheart who is more sympathetic. Miss Landi realizes that she is about to lose her husband who she actually loves, and follows in hot pursuit. She confronts her rival and lays plans to give up her career for his love. In a whirlwind comedy climax, she actually succeeds in winning back Grant's love but, at the same time, retains her career and freedom. Lynne Overman and Sharon Lynn are much her husband, even in the principal supporting roles, and Adrian Rosley and Paul Porcasi are important in character roles. "Enter Madame" features Richard Bonelli, star of the Metropolitan Opera Company, and Nina Koshetz is heard in a singing role. It presents several elaborate and well-dressed scenes from popular operas during the progress of the film's action. Elliott Nugent directed.

One of the finest, most human, most heart-warming films is showing at the King's Theatre, to-day. The picture is "Bright Eyes", Fox Film's newest and best vehicle for the amazing talents of Shirley Temple, child star, in an extraordinary "Bright Eyes" has universal appeal, in every sense of the word. Swift, human, at times pathetic, at times enormously funny, it is a story which will hold you in its spell from opening sequence to amazing finish. The action of "Bright Eyes" takes place at a local commercial airport near Los Angeles and in a wealthy Pasadena home nearby. James Dunn is once again cast opposite Shirley, and delivers one of the ablest performances of his notable Hollywood career. Jane Darwell, who registered as completely as "The White Parade" of recent memory, contributes splendid work, and other members of a fine cast are Lois Wilson, Judith Allen, Charles Sellon,

"Stand Up and Cheer"
When "Stand Up and Cheer", Fox Film's new musical extravaganza, comes to the Oriental Theatre on Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, it will introduce no fewer than five songs that have already established themselves as songhits wherever they have been heard. Low Brown, associate producer with Winfield Sheehan, of this most elaborate production, is the author of the songs on collaboration with Jay Gorney. The songs, destined as the dance tunes of the world for 1934, are "Our Last Night Together", "Baby Take A Bow", "I'm Laughing", "Broadway's Gone Hill Billy", "She's a Ray Up There" and "Out of the Red". They are sung, in various teaming arrangement, by John Bolen, James Dunn, Sylvia Froos, the sensational four-year-old Shirley Temple, Nici Foran, "Aunt Jeannette" and Earl Dancer's famous chorus. In each of them there is an ensemble of the most beautiful girls composed of the screen has ever placed on view.

"Sisters Under the Skin"
"Sisters Under the Skin," the Columbia film which opened at the Star Theatre last night, proved a source of constant delight to a large audience. A simple story simply told, "Sisters Under the Skin" deals with a lovely young actress forced to choose between love and luxury. But her loyalty holds her to the man who can give her everything, while her heart asks for the other who can offer her only love. Elissa Landi presents a glowing portrayal as the girl, while the return of Joseph Schildkraut to the screen was greeted with applause. Frank Morgan's interpretation of the multimillionaire industrial magnate is just another example of the fine artistry of this versatile player. Doris Lloyd is charming as Morgan's preoccupied wife, Clara Blandick is delightfully acid as his secretary while Shirley Grey does a hard-boiled actress effectively. The remainder of the cast is well chosen.

"Gambling"
George M. Cohan, author-star of the Harold B. Franklin production, "Gambling," a Fox Film release, which has been booked into the King's Theatre starting next Wednesday, is one of the most prolific of American writers. He was long in partnership with Sam H. Harris in the production of plays. While their association lasted they produced 100 plays, musical shows, revues and operettas. Since the dissolution of the partnership with Harris, Cohan has produced mostly plays of his own authorship. One of the most successful of these was "Gambling," which ran a full season on Broadway, and which now furnishes him with a screen vehicle.

BRIDGE

By W. E. McKenney

The end play is perhaps the most useful of the fine plays in contract. The common method is to strip the hand, throw the opponent in and force him to make a lead that will give you an extra trick.

To-day's hand combines two end plays in addition to a sacrifice or safety play. The hand was played by Sam Naiman of New York at a recent duplicate game.

Mr. Naiman sat in the South position and, when he opened with one diamond, West jumped to four clubs. Naturally, North knew that this bid was made with the intention of shutting him out of the bidding, so he went to four diamonds. East, not being vulnerable, safely showed the long heart suit. Without these interference bids, it is doubtful whether North and South would have arrived at the five-diamond contract.

The Play

West's opening lead was the king of clubs. East failed to trump, discarding a small heart. This is the only play where the underleading of touching honours is an advantage. East did not trump his trick because he did not know his partner held the king-queen and not the ace-king. While I do not believe in underleading touching honours, it would have been an advantage in this case.

However, the development of the hand from here was very interesting. South won the trick with the ace and then led a small heart, winning in dummy with the ace. A heart was returned and trumped in declarer's hand with the four of diamonds.

Now the ace of diamonds was cashed and then the six of diamonds played, the trick being won in dummy with the jack.

The eight of hearts was played next and trumped with the ten of diamonds by South. Declarer had a perfect count on the West hand by this time—he had followed with two trumps and had shown out on the third heart. East had shown out of clubs—therefore West had only two spades.

So declarer led a small spade. West played low, the queen was played from dummy and East won with the king. Now, if East returns a heart, declarer can ruff and discard a club from dummy, while if he returns a small spade, declarer will take the finesse and then cash the ace of spades.

At this point the dummy is down to two diamonds and two clubs while declarer is down to two clubs, one diamond and one spade. The last spade is led and, if it is ruffed in dummy, the contract will not be made as he will have to lose a club. So one of the losing clubs must be discarded from dummy, throwing East in the lead.

All East can do is return a heart on which declarer plays the queen of diamonds, discarding the club from dummy. By deliberately sacrificing the spade trick to take an extra trick, the declarer was able to make his contract of five diamonds.

A further step was taken in the development of Empire Air Service, whereby it is possible for passengers to travel all the way from England to Australia and vice-versa by air.

The outward service will commence on April 4, and the inward on April 22.—Reuter.

Today's Contract Problem.
Study the West hand. You'll hardly think that South could make five spades against that hand with anything but a heart opening. It's an interesting bidding problem. Six clubs can be made East and West. How would you bid it?

PEAK TRAM FLATS

ORDINANCE BEING AMENDED

The Gazette contains the draft of an Ordinance to amend the Peak Tramway Ordinance 1883.

It is explained that Section 12 (1) of the principal Ordinance, No. 2 of 1883, enables the Government in certain events to purchase all lands, buildings, works, materials and plant of the Peak Tramways Company Limited suitable to and used for the purpose of its undertaking. The word "undertaking" is defined in section 2 (c).

The Company contemplates erecting, on part of its land over the Lower Tram Station, certain residential flats, and the object of this amending Ordinance is to include such flats in any sale under Section 12 unless the Governor in Council by notice in writing declares that the land and the building are to be excluded from the sale.

SIMON'S PEACE QUEST

Just is disarmament that is freely agreed to and in order to bring about an agreement about armaments it is absolutely necessary to increase the sense of security.

MOSCOW AND WARSAW

"The Lord Privy Seal, Mr. Eden, and I are in a few days setting out upon visits to Berlin, Moscow and Warsaw in efforts to promote better understanding between European nations and in the hope of contributing towards a settlement of those outstanding problems which at present impair international confidence.

"I am under no illusion as to the difficulties of our task, but any measure of success would be not only a contribution to the appeasement of Europe but would be opening up renewed possibilities for that arms agreement for which we have so long striven.

"That in its turn will strengthen the League of Nations and the collective peace system. The visit I shall be paying to Berlin, upon which the Lord Privy Seal will accompany me, is of course quite independent in origin from that which my colleague will pay subsequently to Russia and Poland.

"Let me make it clear, however, that His Majesty's Government attaches no less significance to the latter visit than to the former. They regard each visit as of exceptional importance and welcome most sincerely the opportunity which will thus be afforded in the three great capitals of the hopes to promote that international understanding which in this Government's chief concern."—British Wireless.

BREACH OF TRUST

SINGAPORE BANKER IMPRISONED

Singapore, Mar. 15.
After a trial which lasted five days at the Singapore Assizes, before Mr. Justice Burton and a special jury, the well-known banking figure, Tan Boon-kiah, was found guilty of a grave breach of trust to-day.

He was sentenced to three years' rigorous confinement.

Tan Boon-kiah was formerly assistant manager and director of the Sze Hai Tong Bank and Insurance Company, a concern of excellent repute and long establishment.

He was charged with a breach of trust, as a servant of the company, involving the sum of $103,750.90.—Special.

A bankruptcy notification states that a first dividend of 10 per cent. has been declared in the case of Tommy James Rew, clerk, of 53 Johnston Road.

TRADE HOPES

IMPROVING MARKET IN FAR EAST

London, Mar. 15.
Surely it is not too much to hope that the development of trade in India and China will be one of the most important features of the next decade, declared Mr. Walter Runciman, President of the Board of Trade, speaking at the annual banquet of the Paper Makers' Association here to-night.

He refused to believe that the impetus in trade shown by figures for January and February were "our last word."

"We are better off than we were three years ago," he reminded his audience, "and we shall be better off still three years from now."

An analysis of trade figures for the past year confirms the first good impression, according to qualified observers.

The decline of imports of raw materials, which appeared to be the weak spot, was almost entirely due to the fall of raw wool prices.

Last month's returns, compared with February a year ago, in respect to cotton exports, show that trade is nine per cent higher. The output of machinery for

MAXTON MARRIED

LABOUR MEMBER WEDS
HIS SECRETARY

London, Mar. 15.
Without ceremony and almost secretly, Mr. James Maxton, the well-known House of Commons Leader of the Independent Labour Party was married to Miss Madeleine Glasie, his voluntary secretary for 11 years.

Both are 49 years old. He was at the Commons for this morning's debate doing committee work, and left from there for the registry office.—Reuter Special.

February has been 2840,000 greater than the corresponding month of 1934.

The output of steel for February was 769,600 tons, compared with 707,500 tons, and the output of pig-iron was 488,100 as against 414,400 tons.

The export of beverages, including liquors and beers, declined by 2500,000 in last February.

It appears that America's thirst of a year ago, stimulated by the repeal of prohibition, has been at least temporarily quenched to some extent.—Reuter.
